PATROLMAN SHOT; ARREST IS MADE

Prisoner Says He Can Establish an Alibi

Howell Settled Trouble at Colored Dance and Was Sitting on Porch at Time.

HE WILL ENTIRELY RECOVER

A murderous attack was made on Patrolman Sam Howell, of the Mechanicsburg beat, Saturday night between 11 and 12 o'clock at Bud Simms' colored dance hall just beyond Mill street before Tyler is reached, and the popular and courageous patrolman is in Riverside hospital with about 50 No. 4 shot in his shoulders and face. "Peck" Ratcliffe, colored, 25 years old, is under arrest suspected of having done the shooting.

Saturday night Howell went to the dance hall a little before time to report on duty, and when "Peck" Ratcliffe started a "rough house" Patrolman Howell promptly put him out. After cursing and abusing the officer at the door, Ratcliffe attempted to fight, and was given a good thrashing and sent away. Howell dismissed the matter from his mind and going over to Simms' residence a short distance away, sat down on the porch directly under a lamp.

Suddenly a gunshot report rang out and Howell with a groan sank to the floor. The flash came from a thicket not far from the house and the greatest excitement prevailed. The panic stricken dancers ran in every direction and a telephone message to the city hall, brought City Jailer Tom Everts and Patrolmen Orr, Sanders and Long to the scene. They failed to find the suspect, and Howell was taken in the patrol wagon to Riverside hospital, where his wounds were dressed. Shot entered his nose, mouth, arms and chest and the patrolman exhibited without chloroform, submitting to probing without two hours after the shooting in his home near Seventh and Jackson streets. Patrolman Aaron Hurley, City Jailer Everts and his brother, Mr. Sam Everts, making the arrest. He was curled up in bed and his clothes were wet and muddy. Ratcliffe alleges that he went to a crap game after being ejected from the dance hall, and heard the gun shot. When policemen began searching the woods, he feared they were after crap shooters and ran. Ratcliffe has the names of several witnesses on paper.

"Peck" Ratcliffe was presented in police court this morning charged with malicious shooting with intent to kill, and Senator J. Wheeler Campbell appeared as his counsel. Chief of Police James Collins stated that he thought Policeman Howell would be able to be at the city hall by Wednesday and the case was set down for trial on that day. Ratcliffe gave his attorneys many names as witnesses, and it is said he will try to establish an alibi.

Policeman Howell was reported much better this afternoon and will recover. He is a popular officer and many friends have called up Riverside hospital to inquire about his condition.

MANY BAPTISTS REACH MAYFIELD

Ministers' Meeting Begins There Tonight

General Association Opens Wednesday at Baptist Church—The Missions.

ALL HOMES THROWN OPEN

Mayfield, Ky., June 24. (Special.)—Mayfield will be the center of interest for Kentucky Baptists this week, as the General Association begins here next Wednesday. There will be hundreds of delegates, ministers and visitors in attendance, and nearly every home in Mayfield is thrown open to welcome them. Citizens generally, without regard to denomination, have responded to the call for assistance in entertaining the visitors, and it seems clear that the reputation of Mayfield and western Kentucky for hospitality will be royally sustained this week.

The sessions of the associations, of which the Rev. T. T. Eaton, of Louisville, is moderator, will be held in the Baptist church, and it will be welcomed by the pastor, the Rev. A. S. Pettie. The program and order of business will be presented by the program committee and adopted during the session.

The Woman's Missionary association, auxiliary to the association, of which Mrs. B. F. Proctor is president, will hold its session at the same time.

It was thought her arm was broken at first, but examination by Dr. Frank Boyd, the traction company's physician, showed only severe bruises. The car was in charge of Motorman Flowers and Conductor Billington.

CRUELTY CHARGE BRINGS ANOTHER

Now Young Man is Accused of Felony by Another Who Fell Asleep Under Tree at Wallace Park

HELD OVER TO GRAND JURY.

Charged with robbing Clarence Tolbert of $38 while the young man dozed off at Wallace park Saturday night, Fowler Finch was held over in the police court to the grand jury under a bond of $300 and was in addition fined $20 and costs for cruelty to animals, and will be tried tomorrow for fast driving. George Stevens and Matt Grigg, companions, were also fined $20 and costs each for cruelty to animals and tomorrow will be tried with Finch for fast driving.

Saturday night Clarence Tolbert, a nephew of Special Illinois Central Policeman Dick Tolbert, went to Wallace park and fell asleep under a tree. He was rudely awakened by some one reaching in his trousers' pocket and identified Finch as the person. Finch, it is alleged by Tolbert, had taken $38 from his pocket. He reported the matter to the police, but nothing was seen of the suspect until Sunday afternoon late, when he was arrested with Stevens and Grigg for fast driving.

The three had gone to James Gaudier's stable and hired a horse, paying $3.50 for its use, and tendering a $20 bill, receiving change. This himself wealthy, went to a lonely spot in the outskirts of Landsdowne and there took his life by means of poison, supplemented by razor gashes in his throat. Dr. Hutchinson was a Harvard man and had just been graduated from the medical department of the University of Pennsylvania. A letter addressed to his father lay beside the body.

Demand on James P. Smith To Accept the Nomination

Interest Center in Republican City Convention at City Hall Next Thursday Afternoon When The Mayor Will Be Chosen

SITUATION LOOKS PUZZLING.

The Republican state convention being over and local issues again coming to the front, public attention is centered this week on the Republican city convention, which will be held Thursday at the city hall. It is difficult to gauge the strength of the various candidates, as this year with the prospects of the victory better than ever before, there are indications of a vigorous fight for the nominations.

NELLIE WILL BE RAISED THIS WEEK

Captain Smith Has More Remarkable Experience Than Related in The Sun Saturday, When Boat Sank

BELIEVES SHE WAS SCUTTLED.

Still holding to the theory that the towboat Nellie was scuttled in Clark's river Friday night, Captain J. B. Smith is making preparations to raise the boat either today or tomorrow. For two days previous to the sinking of the towboat with disastrous results to Engineer Hawkins, it had been lying in still water, and for it to spring a leak from natural causes and sink as it did seems improbable. While the theory of scuttling is held, it is possible that a plug may have been knocked out of the boat by a floating object.

Dr. C. H. Brothers went down to Metropolis today on the George Cowling to see Engineer Isaac Hawkins, whose arm was so badly crushed when the boat sank that it had to be amputated. He stood the operation Saturday morning well, and is expected to recover.

Capt. Smith's escape from drowning when the boat sank, is more miraculous as told by himself. To be on the lower deck of a boat under water and with a stairway, the only means of egress, covered with a

The announcement a week ago in The Sun that Mr. James P. Smith would not seek the nomination unsettled the situation considerably, but a call, which amounts to a demand, published in The Sun today, indicates a disposition on the part of the office, not only to seek the man, but to take him, whether or no.

President Earl Palmer, of the board of aldermen, is being urged for the head of the ticket, and there may be a contest.

In today's Sun also there are calls on Attorney A. Y. Martin to accept the nomination for city attorney, and on City Treasurer Dorian to accept renomination.

The School Ticket.
In accordance with the plank in the state platform, demanding that the schools be taken out of politics, the city committee invites the Woman's club and the Alumni association to name first-class men for the school board. If the names are handed to Dr. Frank Boyd by Wednesday morning, they will be considered by the convention.

smokestack was an experience through which there would seem to be a slim chance of escape. When the smokestack fell it struck Captain Smith on the left knee, taking the skin off the knee-cap. The surging boat finally dislodged the smokestack, and though the whole occurrence had occupied only a few moments, to a man ten feet under water it seemed long minutes. Making his way up the stairway he arose to the surface of the river and swam to the bank. Captain Smith also received a blow on the temple.

Aeronauts Fall to Death and Gas Bag Explodes, Killing Peasants.

Three aeronauts, two French officers and one Austrian officer fell from the balloon and were killed. STRUCK BY TRAIN TAKES BIG DRINK

Sand Digger Dozes on Track Until Passenger Knocks Him Off Without Breaking His Bottle

CREW KNOCKED A TWISTER.

Struck by an Illinois Central passenger train going at the rate of 30 miles an hour, James Reed, a laborer at the clay pits near Mayfield, was able to rise a few minutes later, take a pull at his whisky bottle, and stagger on his way.

The fast flyer, No. 102, in charge of Engineer Leslie Robertson, was flying along just south of Mayfield. Just this side of Pryor's station Engineer Robertson saw a form sitting huddled on the rails. He sounded an alarm signal and shut off steam. He had slowed up considerably, but was still bowling along at a fast clip when the form was struck.

Thinking the life had been knocked out of the man, the crew ran to his prostrate form. When the train stopped, grasping him by the arm, Conductor Dugan shook him gently, and his eyes came open. Slowly Reed raised himself to a sitting posture, and tugging desperately at his rear trouser's pocket produced a whisky flask. Taking a hard pull at the bottle he seemed to revive wonderfully, and rising started off down the track. He assured the crew that he was uninjured, and giving Robertson the "high ball" plunged into the woods.

He was identified as a laborer at the clay pits, and his escape from death was miraculous.

AGREEMENTS OFF WITH OPERATORS

New York, June 24.—It is officially announced at the office of the Western Union today that the agreement entered into by the company and the promises and concessions made to the operators in President Clowry's letter to Commissioner Nall are now off, in view of the action of the Commercial Telegraphers' union in declaring a strike in San Francisco immediately after the company made the concessions and agreed to settle all differences.

BOILER EXPLODES, ONE MAN KILLED

Charles Brooks Killed in Accident in Calloway County This Morning

THREE OTHERS ARE SCALDED

Paducah Colored Man Kills Another at Picnic at Hickory Grove Sunday.

ST. JOHN'S DAY AT BENTON

Murray, Ky., June 24.—(Special.)—By the explosion of the engine boiler at Vandorah's saw mill in the extreme southwestern portion of Calloway county about 7 o'clock this morning, Charles Brooks, a young man, was instantly killed and three others were seriously scalded. The accident happened just as they were firing up to begin work.

Murder at Hickory Grove.

Mayfield, Ky., June 24.—(Special.)—During the progress of a colored picnic at Hickory Grove, Sunday, it is charged, Ed Williams, colored, of Paducah, shot and killed Roger Dawson, of Hickory Grove, Williams, it is claimed, was drunk and quarrelsome, while Dawson is regarded as a good citizen. Williams was arrested not far from Hickory Grove and is in jail in this city.

Narrow Escape From Death.

Murray, Ky., June 24.—(Special.)—Less than two minutes after Mr. Alvin Beach had hitched his fine buggy horse to a tree and entered Pleasant Grove church with a companion, lightning struck the horse yesterday morning and killed it instantly. The animal was one of the most valuable in Calloway county. Although there was considerable wind yesterday, little damage was done. Rains that amounted in some portions of the county to almost a cloudburst caused some minor damage.

St. John's Day.

Benton, Ky., June 24.—(Special.)—St. John's Day, in spite of the inclement weather, is being celebrated in old fashioned style here in the court, with a large crowd present. A platform was built in the yard, but was discarded when the rain came. This morning J. H. Ford, master of the lodge, delivered the opening address and presided. The Rev. G. W. Banks, of Paducah, made a most eloquent speech. In addition to the program of drills, songs and recitations by children this afternoon, the Rev. W. S. McCastin, of the Methodist church, and the Rev. N. S. Castleberry, of the Baptist church, are to make addresses.

Grocer Assigns.

Mayfield, Ky., June 24.—(Special.)—G. W. Fetherston, a well known grocer, assigned Saturday night. His liabilities are fixed at approximately $5,000 and his stock at $2,500.

DUCK HAD WING WHERE HEAD SHOULD GROW, BUT LIVED.

Farm freaks were climaxed with the exhibition on market this morning of a duck perfectly developed in all ways with the exception that it had no head. Where the head belongs, a perfectly made third wing has grown out. The duck has two wings in the natural places, two legs and a tail. Its neck evidently started out well but instead of a head growing on it, a third wing occupies the place of the head. On the under side of the neck two holes allow the duck to breathe. The third wing moves as the head would have moved but the duck had no sight and presumably no hearing. Mrs. Kate Smith of stall No. 27, living on the Cairo road two miles from the city, exhibited the duck this morning. It was only two days old and had lived until the hen that hatched it out, in a domestic quarrel killed her offspring. Mrs. Smith took the duck out of the nest and it walked around, the third wing on the neck bobbing about. The sight evidently greatly distressed the old hen, as when the duck was put back in the nest she pecked it to death.

ORCHARD KILLED FOR HIS REVENGE

Bolso, June 24.—Attorney Darrow opened the case for the defense in the Haywood trial today. He said Orchard undoubtedly killed Steinhilber for revenge and Haywood had nothing to do with the crime. "We can prove," said Darrow, "Orchard told a dozen people of his utter hatred of the man, he claimed robbed him of his rights. He is trying to save his craven neck by sacrificing the lives of others."

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE ELECTS NEW OFFICERS.

Abstemious.

A Boston minister says that not long ago he was dining with a friend. Another guest present was a young man from Kentucky, and the minister was much pleased by the youth's somewhat effusive yet self-possessed manner. He also noted that the young man had left his wine untouched.

"Don't you drink wine, Mr. Clayton?" the charming daughter of the host asked, lifting her own glass and smiling across at the young man.

"No; I never do," he replied, blushing.

"Oh, but I am sure you will this time—just one little glass—with me?" she insisted.

"No, thank you," was the resolute reply, and the minister looked upon him with growing admiration. The young lady very nearly achieved a pout.

"No," was the firm reply, though the blush of embarrassment deepened on his cheek. "I never drink wine," he added; "but if—er—you have got a little old Bourbon, I reckon I could stand three or four fingers."—Harper's Weekly.

LLOYD'S LONG FOUL ENDS FAST GAME

Cairo Didn't Like Looks of it and Forfeited

Many Fans Witness Gingers Exhibition Under Cool Skies At League Park.

COLORED TEAM WITH RECORD

"Chief" Lloyd with his "big stick" is directly responsible for the forfeiture of yesterday's game to Paducah by the Cairo Rubys. The game stood one score to the good in the Rubys' favor when the Big Chief stepped up to the plate and frightened the little ones into a forfeit. It was in the ninth inning and although the crowd was small, enthusiasm ran high, so good was the playing. Clouds obscuring the sun made it pleasant for the players, and ginger was exhibited by both locals and visitors.

Hart and Peltz worked in the points for the Holan Independents, and Haliday and Hilburn for the Rubys. The absence of stick work spoke well for the pitchers, who were in good form. By good base-running the locals netted two runs, but the visitors piled up three runs on misplays by the locals. In the ninth inning with three men on base, "Chief" Lloyd took the stick and shambled to the plate. It was Lloyd who had been hitting 'em to the club house, making two doubles during the game. He hit a long drive to the club house and Umpire Gus Bralich ran to the line to get a good look. He called it a foul and sent the base runners back. One runner coming from first base failed to touch second base as he made the circuit, but Bralich did not see him. Even if he had, the failure to tag the bag would have amounted to naught, the drive being a foul; but the visitors claimed justice was not done them, and walked to the bench, forfeiting the game by a score of 9 to 0 to the Independents.

Colored Teams Here.

This morning the Memphis Giants arrived to go against the Paducah Nationals, Ben Boyd's team. The visitors played three games in Memphis last week with a southern team and not a score was made in any game. Boyd will play the Memphis aggregation three games, beginning with today.

Smithland turned out en masse Saturday night to see F. Gent's showboat. After two days and a half had been consumed in going from Paducah to Smithland, Captain Gent arrived in time for a performance Saturday night. A grand street parade in which the only hack in Smithland led, with the band, and the players gorgeously costumed, had the desired effect of packing the theater. It is reported that Captain Gent is satisfied with his experiment with gasoline boats, but wishes to make faster time than 10 miles a day, so he will buy or charter a towboat. He is going to Nashville.

Bridge Burns at Rialto.

Traffic on the Illinois Central between Fulton and Memphis was impaired for hours Sunday by the burning of a bridge at Rialto, Tenn., 53 miles north of Memphis, at 9:30 o'clock Sunday morning. The fire caught from an engine and 25 feet of the trestle were eaten up before the fire was extinguished. It was 12:10 o'clock this morning before the bridge was repaired sufficiently to enable trains to pass over it.

The Biggest Kind of a Change
that Ever Happened to Any Magazine
Has Happened This Month to

THE SCRAP BOOK

THE SCRAP BOOK for July is issued in two sections—two complete magazines, each with its own cover and its own table of contents. One of these sections is an ALL-ILLUSTRATED magazine; the other is an ALL-FICTION magazine. Each is a mammoth magazine in itself. The one presents an overwhelming array of human interest articles and illustrations; the other an enormous tonnage of fiction—160 pages of absorbing stories.

Ten years ago I created a new type of magazine—the ALL-FICTION magazine. Now I am creating another distinct type—the ALL-ILLUSTRATED magazine. This is the age of specialization. The conventional magazine, with its smattering of illustrations and its smattering of special articles, doesn't contain enough of any one thing to make it satisfying. The ALL-FICTION magazine and the ALL-ILLUSTRATED magazine, joined together as a unit, strengthen each other, and make something really big and forceful and convincing.

The Only Way to Know a Thing is to Try It

The two-section magazine idea is brand-new to the world. It is not quite new with me, however, as I have given it, at odd times, four or five years of thought. It first came into my mind in response to a desire to couple, in some way, the strength of the all-fiction magazine with the illustrated features of the conventional magazine. It has been a difficult problem to work out. Now that the idea is perfected, I wish to see what there is in it. It looks to me to be very good, but the only way to know a thing is to try it.

Two Magazines for a Quarter—Easy Money

The price of this two-part magazine is twenty-five cents, which is equal to twelve and one-half cents a magazine. Most magazines which were selling at ten cents have been advanced to fifteen cents. THE SCRAP BOOK in two parts means two magazines for twenty-five cents against thirty cents for two fifteen cent magazines.

NEWS OF KENTUCKY

Queer Suit Filed.

Hopkinsville, Ky., June 24.—A suit, the like of which was never before filed in this county, and which is regarded as something rather unusual in court circles, has been filed by Commonwealth's Attorney Denny P. Smith in the name of the commonwealth of Kentucky against Joe A.

Ledford, of Pee Dee, and B. W. Cowherd. The suit prays for $500 damages, charging that Mr. Ledford violated the covenant with the state as made in his license which permits him to sell liquor only by the quart and under which it is stipulated that it must not be drunk on the premises where sold. Mr. Cowherd is bondsman for Mr. Ledford and is therefore made a party to the suit. It is alleged that the license was issued on March 23, 1906, and that the acts complained of were committed during the following year. It is charged in the petition that the defendant did, after the granting of the license, habitually sell liquor in less quantities than a quart, allowed same to be drunk on the premises and adjacent thereto, permitted drunken and disorderly persons and minors to congregate at his place and to carouse.

In conclusion the petition states, "the unlawful acts and conduct aforesaid, committed by the defendant Ledford and suffered by him as aforesaid, have corrupted the morals of many young men and the unwholesome influences of his said place have largely destroyed the usefulness and effectiveness of the public schools and churches in and near the said town of Pee Dee and have greatly damaged plaintiff. Plaintiff says by the acts aforesaid defendants have broken the covenant of said bond and plaintiff should recover of them the full amount thereof."

City Beats Telephone Company. Hickman, Ky., June 24.—The injunction granted by Judge Bugg to prevent the Cumberland Telephone company from moving the exchange from Hickman has been sustained by the court of appeals. In the injunction Judge Bugg enjoined the defendant company from removing the exchange and apparatus, from refusing to operate same in Hickman and from charging a sum exceeding $1.50 for residence phones. The defendant was further enjoined from refusing to permit the patrons of its telephone system in Hickman, the free use and without tax or charge for communication over its wires to patrons of the telephone exchanges in Hickman, to Union City, Fulton, Mayfield and

WEEK'S EVENTS

COLLEGE COMMENCEMENTS AND MANY DEGREES.

Premier of England Will Propose Limitation on the House of Lords.

The forecast for important events of the week follows:

Thousands of students will say their farewells to college this week. At some of the universities the first four days of the week will be devoted to the exercises attendant upon the conclusion of the school year, including class day, alumni reunions, commencement day and athletics. Monday is class day at Yale and on Wednesday will take place the commencement exercises. Wednesday also will be commencement at Harvard. Secretary of State Elihu Root and the Duke of the Abruzzi are among the guests expected.

More than 200 delegates are expected at the annual convention of the Federation of American Zionists at Tannersville, N. Y., next Friday. It is expected the convention will recommend certain resolutions to the next Zionists international congress at The Hague in August. The Zionists hope to be able to present the Jewish national question to the peace conference in such a form as to induce an expression of opinion from that body.

The wine growers' situation in southern France is expected to assume a more peaceful phase this week, as the principal grievances of the wine growers will be removed by the clauses of the wine frauds bill, which passed the chamber of deputies practically unanimously last week. One of the clauses of this measure requires all growers to make annual declarations of the acreage, cultivation and total quantity of wine produced and in stock, and whether it is intended for sale or not. The government believes that when it is in possession of this information it will be in a position to prevent watering or sugaring the wine.

Premier Campbell-Bannerman will move a resolution in the house of commons designed to curtail the powers of the house of lords. It is expected the debate will last three or four days.

Oxford University will confer honorary degrees June 26 when Lord Curzon, of Kedleston, will be publicly installed as chancellor of the university. Among the recipients of honors will be Mark Twain, Rudyard Kipling, Premier Campbell-Bannerman, Ambassador Reid, Prince Arthur, of Connaught, Augusta Rodin and Admiral Lord Charles Beresford.

Indian Face Paint Language.

When an Indian paints his cheeks in scarlet lines and daubs a yellow square on his forehead the world knows that he is in love.

When he covers his face with zig-zag black lines upon an ochre base it is his purpose to—ah, I'm almost ashamed to say it—to get just as skated as he possibly can.

When the red circles are on each cheekbone and a rectangle of blue is on the forehead the young brave is going out to steal a paleface's horse.

When he paints white rings around his eyes he is running for office, he is a candidate for medicine man or councillor, and the white rings signify that he ought to be elected because he has the wisdom of the owl. —New Orleans Times-Democrat.

RICH INDIAN ON WARPATH.

Push-me-ta-ha Enraged by Failure to Obtain "Firewater."

Disappointed over his failure to buy "fire water," and enraged because his monthly income had not increased in proportion to the advance in the price of crude oil, writes a Tuisa (I. T.) correspondent of the New York Herald, former chief of the Osage Push-me-ta-ha tore up and scattered to the winds more than $1,000 in new banknotes the other day on the streets of this city.

This Croesus of the Osage tribe, who is rated at $2,000,000 in his own right, is believed to be the richest Indian in the world today. His monthly income from oil and gas royalties alone exceeds $30,000. He handles the estate of his entire family, consisting of three wives and 17 children, whose combined wealth at the present price of crude oil, is said to be at least $10,000,000.

The old chief lives in a miserable log hut, about 18 miles from here, in the rock-ribbed hills of the Osage Nation, and those who know him intimately say that his house resembles a barn rather than a place of human habitation.

He rarely visits a white settlement, and when "bootleggers" cannot be found he becomes enraged and threatens dire vengeance against the white race. His threats, however, mean nothing, for he is too lazy to make an effort toward white persons. His own sons declare him harmless, and say that since oil and gas have been discovered on their lands and great riches have come to the family the chief is growing cross, except when whiskey is at hand.

Every member of the Osage tribe, consisting of about 2,000, is worth $15,000. Those who were fortunate in selecting their lands along the 96th meridian, in the midcontinent oil field, are immensely wealthy.

Preferred the Baby's Voice.

A New York scientist, the father of a large and growing family, has his troubles. One evening his youngest was holding forth in her best style. The mother could do nothing with the child, so the man of science went to the rescue.

"I think I can quiet little Flora," he said. "There's no use humming to her in that silly way. What she wants is real music. The fact that I used to sing in the Glee club at Yale and sang well, too, may make a difference."

Accordingly, the professor took the child, and striding up and down the room, sang in his best manner. He has not finished the second verse of his song, when a ring was heard. The door was opened, and there stood a girl of 14, who said:

"I'm one of the family that's just moved into the flat next to yours. There's a sick person with us, and he says, if it's all the same to you, would you mind letting the baby cry instead of singing to it?"—Success.

STAMPED ENVELOPES.

Go Up in Price at Postoffice After July 1.

Stamped envelopes and newspaper wrappers will cost four cents more on the thousand beginning July 1. For instance, the No. 5 envelope, which is three and one-half by six and five-sixteenths inches in size, will increase in price from $21.20 per thousand to $21.24 per thousand. The manufacture of the four-cent newspaper wrapper has been discontinued and none will be issued to postmasters after the stock on hand has been exhausted.

Instructions bearing on the matter follow:

"When ordered in lots of 500 or multiples of 500, of a single size, quality and denomination, the department will, if desired print the purchaser's return card in the upper left hand corner of any of the above described envelopes, but not on newspaper wrappers, without additional charge. Envelopes so printed are designated 'special request envelopes' and are only supplied to purchasers through the postoffice named in the return card. No advertisement or special device of any kind nor the names of addresses will be printed on stamped envelopes by the department.

"In making sales of envelopes and wrappers in quantities other than above set forth it is expected that the postmaster will evince a proper spirit of accommodation, but they are not required to lose the fraction of a cent, and if a postmaster cannot make change the purchaser must tender the exact amount for the number required.

STATESMEN AND THE CHAU-

TAUQUA.

Whatever other good results are to be traced to the Chautauqua movement the demand for popular lecturers thereby created has called to the platform those men, who may be, without meaning offense, classed as
"statesmen out of a job." Carmack,
Beveridge, Bryan, Champ Clark, La Pollette and a half dozen others, orators and men of original ideas and opinions, familiar through close association with contemporary politics
and national and international affairs, are personally known to thousands outside the limited area they represent or have represented in the halls of congress, and, more significant, are becoming acquainted with these thousands and these different sections.

Will not the good effect be mutual? Could a Republican listen to Carmack on a non-partisan issue, or a Democrat listen to Beveridge without losing permanently something of his partisan rancor? Can these men travel about over the country discussing broad questions of moral principles without being themselves
morally stimulated and strengthened? And will not contact with these people so diversified in their petty sectional manners, so similar fundamentally, develop their qualities of national statesmanship?

What shall we do with our senators and representatives during their incumbency? Is a far more vital question to us, than what shall we do with our ex-presidents?

There is the corporation law for the legal lights of the senate, the big trust or insurance companies for the financiers, and his own private business interests for the man, who bought this toga; but the men of no means, but great intellects like Carmack and Beveridge have found their places. They are the idealists of our national legislature, the men who uphold traditions and keep our national politics from complete submission to the sordid touch of commercialism; and the more the people
see and hear of these men, the less they will think of the other kind of statesmen(?) that have crept into our national legislature.

When we heard of that young

Philadelphia physician, who killed himself, because he knew he never would succeed in his profession, we shuddered to think of how many others he might have killed and never found it out.

San Francisco will not suffer so much for lack of sensational news by reason of the strike of telegraphers
in that city, as will the rest of the world.

It is evident that the Democratic organ, which recently announced that "our Republican friends" seem satisfied with the Democratic ticket,
is considerably worried over symptoms that some of "our Democratic friends" are not so well satisfied;
and true to the prophecy of The Sun
it resorts to that silly argument that because the majority of the Democrats of Paducah went to the primary and voted against the candidate who was nominated, they are bound to support him. In an effort, to intimidate these voters at least into silence the D. O. says:

These same inconsistent ones
took part in the recent primary and by so doing solemnly promised their support to the nominees, who ever they might be.
In now calling for an independent ticket they not only show their calibre as men, but give evidence to the fact that no credence may be given their position on any question.

Poor old Memphis! It is not a change of charters she needs. It's a change of heart.

If all the railroads unite in voluntarily reducing the passenger fare to 2 cents, they will defraud Kentucky politicians of a lot of political thunder. They have been remarkably reticent throughout the railroad agitation, anyway.

We incline to the opinion that the union Detroit servant girls organized for the purpose of a strike is in the nature of a social club. If they all walk out on the same day they can get excursion rates somewhere. They couldn't stay employed in one place
long enough to really strike.

We speak of the dignity of a profession, the dignity of labor, as if there was something inherent in the character of the calling itself that gave it this quality and any man engaging in it partook of the dignity of
it. Dignity is a quality of mind, and the workman imparts dignity to his labor. Dignity is described as a
"high sense of propriety, truth and justice." Any man possessed of a high sense of propriety, truth and justice will impart dignity to anything he does. Any man lacking these essentials will make any calling un-dignified. Dignity is that quality which begets respect in others. If a laboring man or a professional man would have his calling or his organization respected, every act of his promoting its interests should be characterized by a high sense of propriety, truth and justice.

COMMERCIAL CLUB ACTIVE.

Says the Fulton Daily Leader:
"The Paducah Commercial club is fishing for the J. T. Burton Milling company of Fulton, with a well baited hook, hoping to induce this enterprising firm to build a flouring mill in that city. The club is offering
Mr. Burton some good inducements to locate there. So good are the inducements that Mr. Burton has taken them under advisement. Today L.
W. Burton, a member of the firm, went to look over the territory and to have a personal talk with members of the club. This milling company is the pride of Fulton and our own Commercial club should wake up and not let Paducah walk off
with one of the leading enterprises
of the town."

And yet we believe our Commercial club will show these enterprising gentlemen that the best location for a mill in the south is open, and convince them that Paducah is bound to be the center of all industry in this section.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

To James P. Smith.

We read with regret your signed statement in The Sun, declining to be a candidate for the Republican nomination for mayor of Paducah. We have given it full weight and consideration, and recognize the valid demands, which your business interests make on your time and attention. We even recognize the fact that in accepting the office of mayor you would be making a sacrifice. We do not pretend to minimize that sacrifice in your eyes; but after thoroughly canvassing the situation, duly considering your reasons for not desiring the office and weighing your duty to your private affairs and those related to it, against your obligations as a citizen, we are firmly convinced that the public service demands of you that sacrifice, which you say, and we admit, the acceptance of the office will necessitate.

There are peculiar reasons this year, why every true Republican and citizen of Kentucky should perform
his whole duty, regardless of the sacrifice involved. The strongest state ticket ever presented has been nominated by the Republican party, and political conditions in the state are such as to almost insure its election.
In order to realize the full benefit of these conditions for the state ticket,
the strongest possible local ticket
must be put out by that party, and one in harmony with the business administration of public affairs promised by the party in the state.

Moreover, local conditions demand
a man, who will stand for sound business integrity; one who will harmonize all elements dissatisfied with the Democratic ticket. With such a man at the head of the city ticket, success is assured from the start. We have studied the situation, and consulted
all elements and classes of citizens,
and have arrived at the inevitable conclusion that you are the man for whom the situation peculiarly calls.
In the name of party loyalty, in the name of good citizenship, we demand that you stand by the party and the people at this hour.

MANY REPUBLICANS.

Call for A. Y. Martin.

We, voters of Paducah, call on
Mr. A. Y. Martin, to make the race for city attorney. Mr. Martin is a young man, of high principles, well educated and of extraordinary promise in his profession of law, and would make an ideal city attorney.

VOTERS.

Call for J. J. Doran.

Mr. John J. Doran, city treasurer of Paducah, who has already filled one term with success and honor to himself and his party is hereby requested to stand for re-nomination
and election, as we believe his name
on the ticket will add strength to it.

TAXPAYERS.

Ambiguous.

Philonema—Fred says my singing is Virginia—Yes; it's not human.

"Well," said the professional humorist, "I understand the railroads no longer employ men over thirty-five years of age; I believe they are wise."
"Huh!" snorted the editor, "what would become of you if editors were to apply the same age limit to jokes?"

RAILROAD NOTES

Mr. J. C. Martin, foreman of the railroad hospital in a serious condition, but physicians believe he will recover. He was operated on yesterday for strangulated hernia, and todition. He was taken to the hospital where the cause of his condition was learned. An operation was deemed necessary and was performed by

Cox had too much territory to cover.

HEATING THE SOIL. 4

One German Who Has a Plan to Increase Crops of Early Spring

Dr. Mehner, a German, is responsible for the latest agricultural idea,
which is now the subject of experiment in Germany and France—that of artificially heating the soil for the purpose of pushing the growth of vegetables. It is said to promise remarkable results, especially in the quickening of spring vegetables and their development in size and luxuri-ance.

The method consists in burying at a depth of twenty to forty inches
under the field to be treated conduits
of earthenware, through which steam pipes about an inch in diameter are laid. Steam at a temperature of about 300 degrees is forced through the pipes; it warms the air in the conduits, and the heat slowly radiates
through the clay conduit, warming
the earth.

Leakage of heat is very slow. Experiment is said to show that when the surface of the ground is about at the freezing point the soil at a depth of twelve to twenty inches has a temperature of 42 degrees.

Assuming that the artificial heating was begun early in March, when this condition existed, a very small expenditure of heat would be needed to cause the desired stimulation, and the radiation into the air would be exceedingly gradual. In warmer weather the surface heating from the sun would actually counteract the radiation of the artificial heat.

Of course, the plan does not contemplate heating the soil in the dead

MAN IS A MACHINE
AND SHOULD BE KEPT
PROPERLY ADJUSTED.

"The human body is a machine run
by unseen forces called life, and that it may run harmoniously, it is necessary that there be liberty of blood, nerves and arteries from the generating point to destination."—Dr. A.
T. Still.

We often ask "What is Osteopathy?"
How does it cure?

Osteopathy is a drugless system of medicine which seeks to secure in the human body structural normality
of its parts, upon which their vitality
and proper functioning depend. "Man is a machine" as we have said, and depends, for health, upon the proper adjustment of all parts of the machine.

The Osteopath examines your body
as a skilled mechanic does a machine that is out of order. With a detailed knowledge of anatomy, a sense of touch developed to a high degree, he locates the misadjustments and removes it by scientific manipulation.

Could anything be more reasonable or natural?

The great success attending the Osteopathic treatment is sufficient evidence of its worth. It is a new force in science and grows in popularity every day with the layman.

If you suffer of any of the diseases
local to Paducah, you will find Osteopathy the quickest and surest cure. Malaria, chronic headaches, liver and stomach and bowel troubles, nervousness, rheumatism, asthma, neuralgia, lumbago—any of these ailments yield readily to the treatment. Phone me, 1407, or call at my office any time from 9 to noon or 1:30 to 5 and I shall be pleased to tell you what you can expect in your particular case.

Dr. G. B. Fromge, 516, upstairs, Broadway.

of winter when atmospheric cold
would kill any plants that might be artificially caused to germinate. The idea is simply to aid nature when the spring sets in.

Asparagus, lettuce, young onions,
cucumbers, radishes and other spring
plants are the ones on which it is expected to use the system with most effect. Later, in combination with forcing frames, it may be used on strawberries and experiments may be tried on various fruit trees. The method is likely to be applied to floriculture and the growth of plants for seed purposes also.

It is calculated that the expense of installation for each space of 2,500
square yards in Germany and France is about $250 plus the steam generating apparatus, which may be large or small, according to the tract to be heated, and which may be used for other purposes. The cost of the heating is figured at $15 a month.

The annual increase in profit for the same patch of ground sown with early vegetables is figured at $500 on a three months' heating of the soil—

How Genius Borrows.

"It is wonderful," says Charles Reade, "how genius can borrow."
"All literature," remarks Oliver Wendell Holmes, "lives by borrowing and lending;" and he adds, "A good image is like a diamond which may be set a hundred times in as many generations, and gain new beauties with every change." This is not a question of originality. "The lighting a candle at a neighbor's fire,"
observes Dean Swift, "does not affect ownership in the wick and flame."
"Genius borrows nobly." The trans-ference is often a transmutation. For brass, the borrower brings gold, and for iron, silver; and for wood, brass;
and for stones, iron. The crude ore
is refined, and the raw material fashioned into a thing of beauty.

It has been pointed out by Mr.
Huth, in his "Life of Buckie," that there is a kind of pedigree in literature. Dante avows his indebtedness to Virgil; as the latter himself was under obligations to Homer.

Ariosto owes much to Virgil, and Spenser borrows frequently from Ariosto. Spenser's "Faerie Queene" gave birth to Fletcher's "Purple Island," and this to Bernard's "Isle of Man," and this in turn to Defoe's
"Robinson Crusoe" and Bunyon's
"Pilgrim's Progress"—all like so many blossoms rising from the one stem.

Shakespeare has been called "the great Warwickshire thief," so inventate is his borrowing habit. He invaded literature like a Napoleon and brought back the rarest art treasures to enrich and beautify his verse. One is surprised to learn that our dramatist has no original plots, that he has given to poetry no new rhythm nor stanza, and that "he ran not only in the old road but in the old ruts."
His "As You Like It" is taken from an old romance. The characters of his "Julius Caesar" are old Romans taken from Plutarch. But what borrowing! Dry bones are turned into living men. The commonest materials are taken into the lambent flame of his genius and transmuted into airy beauty.

Milton, too, is a free borrower. It is this fact, indeed, that makes his verse so rich in learned reminiscence,
and so gorgeous with "barbaric pearl and gold." He owes much to Shakespeare. Some critics think Milton's Eve is borrowed from Shakespeare's Miranda.—The Circle Magazine.

50c and 75c Nail Brushes 25c

One of the best things we have in toilet supplies is a line of Nail Brushes or hand scrubs, made by the Imperial Brush factory, Japan. They are made from the finest selected bristles, prepared by Japanese workmen with the skill for which they are famous, and would cost you 50c to 75c in any drug store. We are able to sell them for 25c, however, because the quantity which we buy would last the ordinary druggist about ten years. Buying large quantities direct from the importer enables us to make money at Next time you want one compare ours with what your druggist offers you. If you do that, we'll make a sale.

Will Return Before Crossing English Channel.
Professor Charles W. Oldreive, the water walker, left this morning for Greenwood, Miss., after making arrangements to give an exhibition in Paducah July 7. Professor Oldreive passed Paducah on his famous walk from Cincinnati to New Orleans. He bears the scar on his forehead and nose where an eddy at New Orleans threw him violently against a barge.

In August, Professor Oldreive will leave for England to try to walk across the English channel. He says he is too thin now from his river walk to undertake this feat. The English channel is noted for its roughness and if he accomplishes the attempt, it will give him an international reputation. He has been water-walking for 22 years.

CHIEF COLLINS GETS OUT SUNDAY WATER BARRELS.
Yesterday Chief of Police James Collins got out his water barrels and placed them on several corners in the business portion of the city. Cups were supplied and there was ice water for all. This was begun last year when excursionists came to Paducah and failed to secure sufficient ice water. Every Sunday the barrels will be placed on corners.

Forest Signs.
"The trail has a code of signs, as well as a book of laws. A twig designedly broken is a finger pointing toward a gate. A 'blaze' corresponds to the beckoning hand. A new blaze renders an old one of no value. A sapling cut and bent across a path locks it and warningly says, 'Go no farther this way.' A stick set upright in the mud means 'No bottom here.'"

"By use of these, and many other records of the same sort, the trailer profits by the experience of those who have gone before him, and aids those who are to follow. There is always news on the trail for those who have eyes to perceive it; and it is the duty of him who rides ahead to enlighten those who are to follow. The Kikikat by means of signs almost invisible than cheer, direct and definitely warn his tribesman. These signs on the trail are respected; no one thinks of removing them, except for cause."—"Long Trail."

Wolsley and Swearing.
As an instance of Lord Wolsley's dislike of bad language in the service, a story may be told of a swift conversation which he one day effected, says P. T. O. The commander, G—, of an Irish garrison, was a man whose reputation for "fluent" language was great. At an inspection at which Wolsley was present, G— gave the bugler the order to sound the "charge." To G—'s consternation the man blew the "retreat." Then G— braced himself for the usual volley. Suddenly, however he caught Wolsley's eye upon him, he stopped short. The oaths that were upon his lips died away unspoken, yet say something he must. For a moment he gazed blankly around; then turning quickly to the unhappy bugler, he roared out to the intense amusement of Lord Wolsley and his staff, "You naughty, naughty trumpeter."

CHAINS WIFE TO A STAKE.

Cruel Husband Leaves Her With Food and Water Beyond Reach.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., June 24—Chained to a stake in the yard of their home and exposed all day to the hot sun with no water or food, Mrs. Michael Sabinsky of Dupont, near here, was rescued last night by several miners on their way home from work. Mrs. Sabinsky says her husband, who is now under arrest, overpowered her, tied her arms and legs and chained her to the stake because she would not tell him where she had hidden her savings. Then, to increase his cruelty, she says, he placed just beyond her reach a pail of water and some food and left her. The house is far from any other dwelling, and not until evening were the woman's cries heard.

Peanut Production is Increasing and Importations are Multiplied

Washington, June 24.—Peanuts are beginning to form an appreciable and rapidly growing item in the foreign commerce of the United States, especially in the import trade. Despite the fact that the United States produces probably 12 million bushels of peanuts per annum, her exportations have been in such inconsiderable quantities that the bureau of statistics has only recently found it necessary to include peanuts in its list of articles exported. Meantime the imports have also rapidly increased and the total foreign commerce in this article in the year about to end will aggregate nearly one million dollars, the imports having grown in value from less than $6,000 in the year 1900 to about a half million dollars in the present year, while exports for the year will approximate about three hundred thousand dollars.

Prices of peanuts have also greatly advanced in the foreign markets, the average valuation of imported peanuts, based upon wholesale prices in the markets from which they are sent to the United States, having advanced from 1.1 per cent. — pound in 1898 to 3.4 cents per pound in 1907, for those in the natural state, and that of shelled peanuts imported in 1898 was 2.4 cents per pound, and in 1907, 4.5 cents.

West Africa and the East Indies are the principal sources of supply of the peanuts entering the international markets of the world. The exports of peanuts from the French colony of Senegal on the west coast of Africa were, in the latest available years, three hundred million pounds; those of British India, a little less than two hundred millions; Gambia on the west coast of Africa, about one hundred millions; the Dutch East Indies, about fifty millions; while China, Japan, Argentina, Spain and the United States also supply comparatively small quantities.

The striking feature of our own trade in peanuts is the rapid growth in importations. The quantity imported a decade ago, in the fiscal year 1897, was less than 150,000 pounds; in 1902, over one million; in 1905, more than five millions; and in 1907 some likely to be about 12 million pounds, of which about one-fourth represents shelled and three-fourths unshelled peanuts, the latter being, as above stated, approximately a half million dollars for the present fiscal year, while that of exports will be over one-quarter of a million dollars.

The Home Crop.
Since the peanut crop of this country is not estimated annually by the department of agriculture, the only official data in regard to both the acreage and the production are those collected by the decennial census. A comparison of the Eleventh and Twelfth censuses show that the growing of peanuts has been rapidly extending in this country, the acreage in 1889 being 204,000 acres and in 1900 517,000 acres, an increase of over 150 per cent, while the production has increased from 3,588,000 bushels to 11,905,000 bushels, or about 233 per cent. The crop is concentrated in a few southern states, Virginia supplying about one-third of it, North Carolina about another third, and five states (Georgia, Alabama, and Florida in addition to the above mentioned) claiming is 1899 about 90 per cent of the acreage and crop.

In comparison with this production the foreign trade is as yet insignificant, the highest imports amounting in the nine months ending March, 1907, to about 400,000 bushels, or less than four per cent of the crop of 1899, while the exports were about 325,000 bushels, or less than 3 per cent.

The increase in the imports of peanuts which has taken place during the last year makes the conditions of the world production and trade of practical importance to the farmers of certain sections of this country.

The World Crop.
The world production of peanuts is considerable, but since the greater part of it is grown in countries of lower civilization, the statistical data in regard to the world crop are very incomplete. As judged by the statistics of foreign trade, the main peanut-producing countries are tropical regions, namely, a few colonies in Africa (Senegal and Gambia), British India, Dutch East Indies, China and Japan in Asia, Argentina in South America, and Spain in Europe. The total exports of these eight countries amounted, in 1900, to 21,000,000 bushels; in 1901, to 24,000,000 bushels; in 1902, to 23,000,000; in 1903, to 32,000,000, and in 1904, to 30,000,000 bushels, valued approximately at $15,000,000. In addition to these countries, several colonies in Africa have been for the last few years exporting small quantities, such as French Guinea, Dahomey, Ivory Coast; but these exports are as yet without commercial importance. Of the total exports, which may be considered equivalent to the world's trade in peanuts, about one-half was supplied by the French African colony of Senegal alone, the British African colony of Gambia supplying about 15 per cent, so that two-thirds came from these two African colonies. British India's share constituted from 20 to 20 per cent, so that about 90 per cent is supplied to the world market by these three countries.

The African Crop.
In the case of the African colonies the exports may be considered as practically equivalent to the crop, domestic consumption in these two colonies being probably very small. In regard to the Asiatic countries this does not hold true, the local consumption being very large and the exports being a comparatively small part of the total production. Official estimates of area and production of peanuts in British India show a very rapid and persistent increase in acreage from 215,000 acres in 1897-98 to 600,000 acres in 1906-7, and in production from 56,000 tons, or 5,600,000 bushels, to about 300,000 tons, or 30 million bushels, i. e., more than two and a half times the American crop. The exports of peanuts from India amount to only about one-fourth of one-fifth of the crop. In Japan a decline of exports has taken place notwithstanding the increase of production, owing to the increasing consumption, scarcely 2 per cent of the crop being now exported. The exports of China constitute only about one-tenth of the total shipments from its ports, which include the coastwise trade. More over China's imports of peanuts are very much larger than her exports, being, in 1902, 1,615,000 bushels against 802,000 bushels; in 1903, 3,104,000 bushels against 791,000 bushels; in 1904, 5,973,000 bushels against 595,000, and in 1905, 6,897,000 against 693,000 bushels exported. The exports of Argentina are very irregular, which is probably explained by the well known irregularity of all crops in that country.

The currents of trade in peanuts are mostly from all the eastern countries, and African colonies mentioned toward Europe. Senegal ships about 65 to 70 per cent of its total exports to France and about 15 to 20 per cent to Netherlands. Gambia sends to France about 80 per cent and to Netherlands 10 per cent, British India also selling to France nearly 90 per cent of all its exports of peanuts and most of the remainder to China. China's exports are consumed in the Far East, and only Japan shows considerable quantities exported to the United States. Thus France is seen to be the most important purchaser of peanuts. The imports of the unshelled products into France amount to about 10 to 14 million bushels, and the imports of the shelled article, namely, from British India, have rapidly grown within the past six years from 53 million pounds to 242 million pounds, so that the total imports have increased from 350 million pounds, in 1900 to 538 million pounds (about 25 to bushel) in 1906. These enormous quantities are used in France, principally in Marseille, for the extraction of oil. This is the main use to which peanuts are put in Europe, where they are not considered an article of luxury, as in this country. In fact, several countries class peanuts in their trade statistics with oil seeds or raw products for use in manufactures.

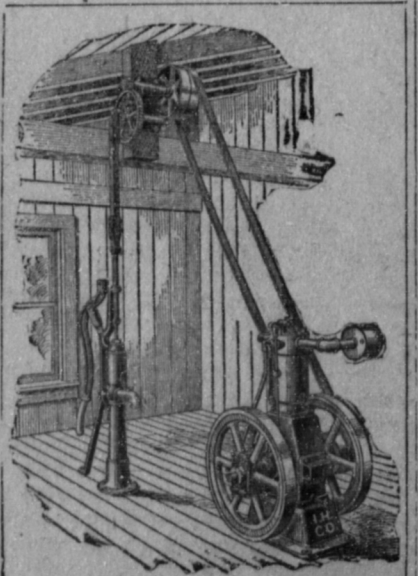

He Fired the Stick.
"I have fired the walking-stick I've carried over 40 years, on account of a sore that resisted every kind of treatment, until I tried Bucklen's Arnica Salve; that has healed the sore and made me a happy man," writes John Garrett, of North Mills, N. Jeems Went.
Humor lightens everything, even grim war. Jefferson Davis, with all the weight of a losing cause on his shoulders, could yet spare time to appreciate and respond to an artless appeal. The incident is related by Captain Sutherland. Among the numerous papers received by the Confederate president, the following turned up one day:

"Dear Mr. President—I want you to let Jeems C. of Co. onth, 5th South Carolina Regiment, come home and get married. Jeems is willin', but Jeems Capt'n he ain't willin'. Now when we all are willin' 'cept Jeems Capt'n, I think you might let up and let Jeems come. I'll make him go straight back when he's done got married and fight hard as ever. 'Your affectionate friend,' and so forth.

Mrs. Davis, telling the story, adds that Mr. Davis wrote his directions in regard to the matter on the back of the letter. They were:

"Let Jeems go."—Youths' Companion.

REDUCE RATES ON ALL LINES JULY 1

Transcontinental Railroads
Bow to People

Meeting in Chicago Decides Question
In Favor of Lower Railroad Fares.

TWO CENTS A MILE HEREAFTER.

Chicago June 24.—Passenger rates on all railroads of the United States will be reduced to 2 cents a mile. The lowering of the price and complete abolition of the old 3 cent rates will begin on July 1.

This was the decision reached in Chicago after a long and heated discussion by the leading railroad presidents of all the western and transcontinental roads. It was not a formal agreement but is equally binding, for two large roads doing a transcontinental business are said to have served an ultimatum to others that they would put the rate into effect immediately.

Following the meeting officials of several of the roads admitted that they had been forced to bow to public opinion and anti-railroad legislation. They said that no further fight would be made on the interstate laws already passed and that the roads would accept the inevitable.

Among those who are said to have attended the secret meeting were President B. L. Winchell, of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific, and President A. J. Faring, of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul. Neither would discuss the report last night.

Remarkable Rescue.
That the truth is stranger than fiction, has once more been demonstrated in the little town of Fedora, Tenn., the residence of C. V. Pepper. He writes: "I was in bed, entirely disabled with hemorrhages of the lungs and throat. Doctors failed to help me, and all hope had fled when I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery. Then instant relief came. The coughing soon ceased; the bleeding diminished rapidly, and in three weeks I was able to go to work." Guaranteed for coughs and colds 50c. and $1.00, at all druggists. Trial bottle free.

The Chief Trouble.
"It is a sad fact," said the statistician, "that the ordinary waste of food in an English middle-class family would be sufficient to maintain wholly a French family of similar station."
"True," said the epicure. "And it is also a gratifying fact that the average French family couldn't be hired to eat it after it had been cooked by the average English middle-class as far as France is concerned."—Harper's Weekly.

It is as good for children as it is for grown-up people, and I recommend it. It is fine for La Grippe." Sold by all druggists.

Barrel.
Anybody can get amusement out of a barrel. Give one to a boy and he'll build a bonfire; to a woman and she'll construct a chair; to a fool and he'll go over Niagara Falls; to a man and he'll trade it for a seat in the senate. The barrel is an article that pleases all tastes.—Pittsburg Press.

The Scheme Worked—in a Way.
The proprietor of a large business house bought a number of signs reading, "Do It Now," and had them hung around his office, hoping to inspire his people with promptness and energy in their work. In his private office one day soon afterward a friend asked him how the scheme affected his staff. "Well not just the way I thought it would," answered the proprietor. "The cashier skipped with $30,000, the head book-keeper eloped with the private secretary, three clerks asked for an increase of salary and the office boy lit out to become a highwayman."—Ladies' Home Journal.

The KING of DIAMONDS.

By Louis Tracy.

Author of "Wings of the Morning," "The Pillar of Light," Etc.

In the spiritual exaltation of the moment he almost expected to find that sweet face peering at him benignantly from out the dim background. But he could not see her, and he rose, revivified by this spoken communion with her. He had no shadow of doubt as to her presence. God to him was the universe and his mother the unquestionable means of communication with the Providence that governed his life. He would die rather than abandon that belief. Were it dispelled from his mind he was quite certain that his wealth would vanish with it. It was no haphazard accident which had sent the diamond laden meteor heading from the sky. He was despairing, dying. His mother appealed for him, and behold! The very elements that control the world obeyed a mighty behest.

He began to work methodically. In the first place, he lit a fire, for the evening was chilly; then he shook his mattress and swept the floor, gathering into a heap all the tiny particles with which it was littered. These he collected in a piece of newspaper and folded them into a parcel, which again he inclosed in a stouter sheet of brown paper, finally tying the whole with a yard of string he carried in his pocket.

There were hundreds of tiny diamonds in that insignificant package and not a few of the size of small peas. As a matter of fact, he discovered subsequently that the net result of his sweeping brought him in over a $1,000.

Having examined every nook and crevice of the apartment by the aid of the candle, he satisfied himself that naught remained which would indicate to the most curious eye any event out of the common having occurred in that humble dwelling.

It was typical of Philip's implicit faith that he did not unlock the back door until his interior task was ended. He knew that his meteor was untouched.

There was no wind without. The candle, feeble as its rays were, illuminated the small yard sufficiently to reveal its debris of white stones and darker lumps of metal. Beginning at the doorway, he swept vigorously, but with manifest care, until he had formed four good sized piles on the flagstones.

He could not afford to differentiate between the debris of the damaged pavement and the fragments of the meteor. It was easy to distinguish the larger pieces of broken glass from the window inside the house. In the yard he had neither the time nor the light to select the bits of shattered stone. All must go together, to be sorted with leisure care subsequently.

He scrutinized the external window sills, the door posts, the chinks of the small coal house door at the farther end of the yard, even the rough surfaces of the walls, and removed every speck of loose material. More newspaper was requisitioned, but after utilizing the twine on his parcel of clothing he ran short of string.

He coolly went up the stairs, unfatigued the rope with which he had intended to hang himself and loosened its stiff strands. Soon he had an abundance of strong cord, and four bulky packages were added to the first small one.

They were heavy, too, weighing several pounds each. In placing them side by side close to the wall beneath the front window he suddenly realized an unforeseen difficulty.

If these shreds of matter—the more hush, as it were, of the meteor—were so ponderous, what would be the weight of the meteor itself? How could he hope to lift it from the hole in which it lay, how convey it from Johnson's News to a new and safer habitation? He might as well endeavor to move an unwilling elephant.

The thought chilled him. For the first time since his parting interview with Mr. Abington, Philip experienced a dread of failure. With something of panic in his blood, he snatched the candle and ran hastily into the yard. He knelt and held the light low in the excavation. Then he cried aloud:

"What! Am I so ready to lose faith in mother?"

For the huge metallic mass—so big that it would not enter the bore of the largest cannon known to modern gunnery—was split asunder in all directions. Its fissures gaped widely as if to mock at him. The rain and steam had done their work well. It was even possible that he would not need the spade, but would be able to pick out each separate chunk with his hand.

Instantly he put the thought into execution and succeeded in lifting several pieces to the yard level. He noted that they were gorged with the dull white pebbles, some being the size of pigeon's eggs. He could not help comparing them in his mind's eye with the collection now lodged in Isaacstein's safe. If those were worth $50,000, these must be of fabulous value. Any other person in the wide world might have been excused if he pinched himself or winked furiously or took out the gold filled tobacco pouch for careful inspection to assure himself that he was not dreaming. Not so Philip. The only dominant feeling in his brain was one of annoyance that he should have doubted for one single instant that means would be given him to secure absolute and undisputed control of his treasure.

But there remained the problem of weight. His original idea was to wrap the actual body of the meteor in the stout sack he obtained from O'Brien and then inclose all his valuables in a tin trunk which he would purchase next morning. Any ordinary trunk would certainly be spacious enough, but its phenomenal weight would unquestionably evoke more comment than he desired, and it would need two strong men to lift it.

This portion of his plan needed to be entirely remodeled, and he was now more than ever thankful that the $30, save one expended, reposed in his pocket. With money, all things, or nearly all things, were possible.

Owing to the cramped space in which the meteor lay, it was no small task to bring it to the surface in sections, but he persevered. By strenuous endeavor he accumulated an astonishing pile of iron ore studded with diamonds, looking not unlike rhinoceros in a brown cake, and the guttering candle held low down failed to reveal anything else in the hole. There was a good deal of debris at the bottom, and the depth was now over four feet. To reach to its full extent he was compelled to jam his head and shoulders into the excavation and feel blindly with one hand, so he rightly concluded that a final examination might be left until daylight.

By this time he was hot and covered with dirt. He stripped, washed himself in front of the fire and changed into his new clothes. He did not possess a looking glass, but he felt sure that he presented a remarkably different appearance when attired in a neat serge suit, a clean shirt and reputable boots. His first impulse was to thrust his discarded garments into the fire, but sentiment prevailed, and he folded them into a parcel.

Then he extinguished his candle and went out. To his exceeding surprise he discovered that it was nearly 9 o'clock. Time had indeed flown.

The shops in the Mile End road open early and close late. He entered a restaurant where he was unknown, passing, as a matter of policy, the coffee stall of his kindly helper of those former days now so remote in his crowded memories. After eating a hearty meal, for which he was thoroughly prepared, he tendered a sovereign in payment.

The proprietor barely glanced at him. Philip was now well dressed, according to local ideas, and his strong, erect figure, his resolute face, added two or three years to his age when contrasted with the puny standard of fifteen as set by the poverty stricken East End.

He had forgotten to buy a necktie and a new pair of stockings. These omissions he now rectified, and he also purchased a warm, dark gray traveling rug, several yards of druggist, a ball of twine and a pair of scissors. A couple of stout but worn leather portmanteaus caught his eye.

"Those are cheap," said the salesman quickly, "only 15 shillings each."
"I'm not sure I can afford so much," said Philip hesitatingly, for the rug alone cost $1.60.

"They're a real bargain—real leather. They were never made under 13 each. Oh, very well! I will take them."
He produced £3, got his change and walked away with his goods without causing any wonderment. The shopman was only too glad to have such a customer at that late hour.

Philip now knew that he was fairly safe, but he decided that a bilkcock had given him a more mature appearance than a cap. This alteration being effected, he hurried off to Johnson's. News and re-entered his domicile without incident worthy of note.

portmanteaus were packed with pieces of the meteor and the paper covered parcels already prepared. When each long weighed about forty pounds he stuffed the remaining space with rolled up newspapers, closed and locked them. He estimated that three larger leather bags, these being less noisy than tin, would hold the remainder of the meteor.

As the next morning would find him occupation enough, he decided to do as much as possible that night. Three times he sallied forth and returned with a good sized valise. He paid prices varying from £2.10s. to £3.15s. and always brought secondhand goods.

He had looked and strapped the fourth of his goodly array of traveling bags when he fancied he heard a footstep in the news. Such an occurrence would have troubled him not a jot a week ago. Tonight it was extremely disconcerting.

Notwithstanding the weight of the packed portmanteaus, especially the larger one, he lifted each bodily in his arms and ran with it into the tiny scullery. On the front window there was no blind, only a small, much worn curtain covering the lower panels, and he did not want any stray loafer to gaze in at him and discover a large quantity of luggage in such a disreputable hole.

When the fourth bag was disposed of in the dark recess of the scullery he paused for an instant to listen. There was not a sound. Through the window he could dimly discern the roof of the deserted stables opposite.

He bent again to the task of packing the fifth portmanteau and was placing in it the last parcel of ore and diamonds when some of the heavy contents fell through one end where the druggist wrapping had been hastily folded.

Shaking the package on the floor as a grocer beats down the contents of a sugar bag, he picked up the fallen specimens and put them in, one by one. A large lump of ore had fallen apart when it dropped. Inside there was a huge kernel, a rough diamond quite as large as a hen's egg.

Philip smiled as he recalled his boast to Isaacstein. He examined the stone critically and realized that if it were flawless it must be one of the marvels of creation. Without experiencing any positive motive he slipped this unique specimen into his pocket and went on with the reconstruction of the damaged parcel.

At last he finished. The portmanteau was lying open on the floor when the thought occurred to him that he might have avoided the flurry and trouble of carrying these heavy articles into the scullery if he had nailed a couple of yards of his druggist across the window.

It was not too late even now to rectify this defect. He glanced at the window to ascertain how much material he should cut off and saw a face—an evil, brutal, suspicious face—peering in at him over the top of the curtain.

SIGN OF DEATH
BY BLACK HANDWitness Recognized It and Refused to TalkStrange Scene Witnessed in New York Court When Prisoner
Raised His Hands.

TERROR ON WITNESS' FACE

New York, June 24.—The Black Hand signal, which conveys the threat of death to its recipient, was given in Judge O'Sullivan's part of the general sessions today. The judge and the crowd that thronged the court room witnessed the strange spectacle.

An Italian on the witness stand had been about to confess his part in kidnapping 7-year-old Salvatore Saitta, who was stolen from his Harlem home several months ago. On seeing the signal the witness turned deadly pale and crouched down in his chair, staring wildly at Pietro Pampinella, the defendant on trial for kidnapping Salvatore. Then he stepped down, shaking his head doggedly, and refused to continue the confession he had pleaded to be permitted to make.

The man was Ignazio De Leonardo, who was jointly indicted with Pampinella for the kidnapping. His trial began on Monday and ended with his being found guilty. De Leonardo was remanded to the Tombs, and Assistant District Attorney O'Connor began the prosecution of Pampinella.

A jury had been sworn and the trial was under way when De Leonardo sent word from the Tombs: "Tell the man who prosecuted me that I want to make a confession."

Court Sees Death Sign.
O'Connor listened to De Leonardo's request, and then had him brought into the court room. Pampinella gazed searchingly at him as he entered, but De Leonardo avoided his glance and walked to the witness stand. He was sworn, kissing the bible held out to him three or four times, and then O'Connor began to question him about kidnappings.

De Leonardo wriggled about his chair. His uneasiness was patent to every one in the court room. Nevertheless, he began to tell of watching little Salvatore as the boy left the public school in West One Hundred and Twenty sixth street. He kept his eyes cast down, while the prisoner bent a steady gaze upon him. The witness seemed conscious of the stare, and presently his eyes unwillingly rose to meet Pampinella's.

At that instant the latter raised his arms and placed his hands upon either temple. Then, while De Leonardo was watching him as though hypnotized, Pampinella swiftly dropped his right hand and drew it quickly across his throat, as though it were a knife.

For a moment De Leonardo struggled unsuccessfully to speak. "Your honor," he said, "the defendant was making signs to the witnesses."

"I saw the signs myself," responded Judge O'Sullivan.
But De Leonardo refused to continue his testimony despite the commands of O'Connor.

When his efforts to have him continue his testimony proved unavailing, Mr. O'Connor had the witness led back to his cell in the Tombs and prepared to continue the trial. A few moments later, however, De Leonardo again sent word that he felt stronger and believed he could tell the true story of the kidnapping if he had another opportunity. Again the man was led from the Tombs and again he was put on the witness stand. When he began for a second time to tell his story it was evident he was making a strong effort to control his fear.

O'Connor had scarcely put a question to him, however, when De Leonardo again succumbed to the magnetism of Pampinella's steady gaze. Once more he raised his eyes to meet those of his former companion and the latter quickly repeated the sign.

De Leonardo trembled and in a shaking voice murmured, "the death sign."
Neither Mr. O'Connor nor Judge O'Sullivan could reassure him, and De Leonardo again left the witness stand, declaring there was nothing more he could tell.

The jury quickly found the prisoner guilty after hearing the kidnapped boy's story.

"Simply a nature fake, my friends," responded the trust magnate, with gleaming smile.—Washington Herald.

Just That.
There is a certain old gentleman who partakes of the qualities of the diamond as it is mined, but whose lack of "polish" is a sad trial to his eldest daughter. The old gentleman, as he expresses it, "got that with both feet when some dupe investors came pirating round the range." Not long ago the family were gathered in the library, one of the windows of which was open.

"That air—" the father began, but was quickly interrupted.
"Father, dear, don't say 'that air'—say 'that there,'" the daughter admonished.
"Well, this air—" he again attempted, but was as quickly brought to a halt.
"Nor 'this ere,' 'this here' is correct," he was told.

The old gentleman rose with an angry snort. "Look here, Mary," he said, with asperity. "Of course, I know you have been to school and all that, but I reckon I know what I want to say, and I am going to say it. I believe I feel a cold in this ear from that air, and I'm going to shut the window!"—Harper's Weekly.

Subscription at Meeting Will Pay Debts of Institution—Church Notes.

The Baptist church at Kevil was dedicated yesterday and many Paducahans attended. There were over 1,000 visitors in the little town coming from miles around, and a big dinner was intended to be spread on the ground, but a threatening cloud drove them to the houses, where every one was supplied. PATRIOTS THEN AND NOW

Our forefathers fought for justice in 1776. They fought for better conditions for themselves and their families; and that those conditions of equal rights to all and special privileges to none might be enjoyed by future generations.

Commercialism and love of the dollar have perverted these conditions.

Unionism proposes to restore equal conditions by giving to its members a fair day's pay for a fair day's work.

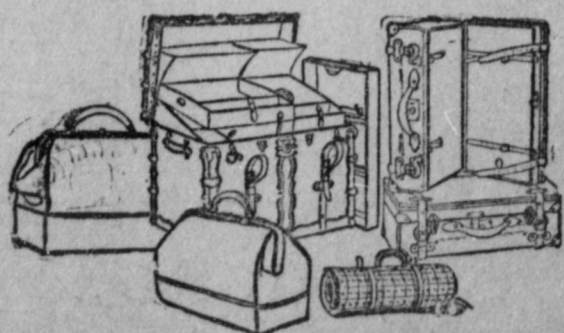

This is the ONLY solution.

There will be no let-up until this end is attained.

We all live here; let's get together for mutual profit.

FOR SECOND TIME FACTORY BURNS

Ten Thousand Dollar Loss at Veneer Works

Defective Wiring Believed to Have Destroyed Plant That Was Idle.

IS COVERED BY INSURANCE.

Fire thought to have originated from defective wiring, destroyed the box factory of the McKinnle Veneer and Package company at the intersection of Elizabeth, Broad and Third streets Sunday morning between 9 and 10 o'clock. The fire had gained a great headway when discovered, and although the fire department did excellent work the entire plant and machinery is a total loss. A. J. Decker, manager of the plant, estimates the loss at $10,000, fully covered by insurance.

At 9:15 o'clock Mr. R. S. Robertson, of the firm of Ferguson & Palmer, operators of a big mill at Third and Elizabeth streets, discovered the blaze. The paper roof of the McKinnle plant was ablaze on the north end. An alarm brought Fire company No. 2 to the scene, and a second alarm brought the Nos. 1 and 4, company No. 3 coming to No. 1 station to protect the business portion of the city.

The dry building burned like a tinder box, and a large pile of tan bark stored near the plant caught. Streams of water were played on the building to keep down the flames as much as possible, and on the burning bark. By hard work a spread of the flames was prevented.

"The fire department did excellent work," declared Col. Decker. "It has been my misfortune to have two fires within a year, and in both the fire companies did excellent work, and too much credit cannot be given them. I estimate my loss at $10,000, which is fully covered by insurance. My machinery is totally a loss. I think the plant will be rebuilt at once."

The building was of light wood and measured 125x40 feet. There was no stock on hand to amount to anything, and the plant had not been running for a week, due to a breakdown. Spontaneous combustion was supposed to have been the cause of the fire yesterday, but this morning Colonel Decker stated that he attributed it to defective wiring. He is now waiting on insurance adjusters before announcing definite plans.

Another Blaze.

At 7:40 o'clock last evening Nos. 1 and 3 fire companies were called to Sixth and Madison streets. A defective flue had ignited the shingles at the residence of Detective Will Baker, and little damage was done. The house is owned by Mayor D. A. Yeiser.

ALL SONG BIRDS DRIVEN OUT BY HORDE OF LOCUSTS

Alton, Ill., June 24.—A horde of "seventeen year locusts" has settled among the trees of "Hop Hollow," a popular picnic ground near here, and have driven every song bird out of the woods. Crows were the first victims of the locust and all were killed the first day. Bluejays resisted the attack for a time, but eventually even the hardier birds were driven away.

Private Islands.

To buy an island, of course, one need not be a power. Some of the Pacific islands are in private hands. A Mr. Greig last year purchased Fanning Island over the head of a German syndicate. A group, of which Hull and Flint islands are the largest, has been acquired by an English firm famous in the soap trade. Another trading concern was so fortunate as to obtain from the last government a long lease of Paanoya island at the remarkable rental of $50. This island is rich in guano phosphates, a coincidence which enables the company to make a profit of something like $500,000 a year.—London Daily News.

CHAUTAUQUA IS SUCCESS AGAIN

Prospects For Next Year Are Brighter Than Ever

It Is Possible That Woman's Club May Take Charge of Big Affair Hereafter.

SETTLEMENT NOT YET MADE

Financially, the Chautauqua will show a profit this year, although the receipts from the season tickets and at the gate will run a little lower than last year. The expenses this year were smaller in some features, as the start always involves an extra expenditure, which is not felt in succeeding years.

Public interest in the Chautauqua as an institution was demonstrated this year in a way to assure the management that an all-star program would be a success, and the plans for next year have advanced far enough for the directors to guarantee a much stronger program than was given this year. It will be a program to which out-of-town people will be attracted.

The tents were taken down today at the Chautauqua and, while nearly all were occupied this year, this feature has not been taken up in the way that the directors believe it ultimately will. The grounds are admirably suited for the purpose and with a program that will give fine numbers throughout the day as well as at night, it is believed that next year will find many more families camping out on the grounds.

Rain Sunday afternoon necessitated the postponement of Rabbi W. H. Fineschreiber's lecture on "The Parliament of Man" and it was given Sunday evening in a double program with V. E. Baksh, the native of India, who lectured on "The Religions of India." A good audience took the chances on the weather to attend.

Altogether, the weather was ideal for a Chautauqua and this with the crowds that have attended and the interest manifested have encouraged the directors. Mr. J. H. Shaw, the promoter will leave today for Elgin, Ill. The Chautauqua association was incorporated, so that all the profits are to be turned back into the program to make it better each year and while it will require several years to pay for the auditorium, the directors who personally assumed responsibility for its erection, are confident that future years will see the name of Paducah made more famous by the annual Chautauqua.

Business men who have given their time liberally to making the Chautauqua a success do not begrudge the time so expended, because they believe in its future, and its benefit to the city, but as the bulk of the work in the nature of things must fall on the shoulders of a few, it requires almost their entire time during the ten days of the Chautauqua, and with the preliminary work necessary, it is too much of an undertaking. It is this situation that has given birth to the idea in the minds of some of the Chautauqua directors, to turn the Chautauqua over to the Woman's club, to let them manage the part they have been managing.

In support of this idea, in addition to the reasons already given, they say that with their greater leisure with greater numbers and the variety of women interested, the Woman's Novel Uses for Peat.

In Germany the consumption of peat is constantly increasing. As bedding for stock only the second and third layers are used. The blocks of peat are dried by air or in a kiln; they are then shredded by machinery and sieved, after which they are compressed and packed in bales by means of slats of wood and iron wire.

For fodder only the top layer is used. It consists of moss and the fibers of partially dried peat. The dried peat is then ground and sifted and mixed with molasses in the proportion of 20 to 25 of peat and 70 to 75 of molasses, obtained in the manufacture of sugar from beets. This product is guaranteed to contain 35 to 40 per cent of sugar.

Horses fed with this develop glossy coats, gain in appetite, and are free from colic. Neat cattle are said to become less subject to foot and mouth disease. The addition of 4.4 pounds to the daily feed of milch cows is said to increase the daily yield of milk about .55 gallon.

In the province of Hanover from 10,000 to 15,000 tons are used every year, while Germany as a whole consumes 150,000 to 200,000 tons.

The value of peat for fuel is shown by the fact that it contains 54 per cent of carbon, against 59 per cent in wood, 70 per cent in soft coal and 82 per cent in hard coal.

The so-called "torfaull," or turf dust, is sifted out of peat and used for packing fruit, such as tomatoes and other products, while "mull," a by-product of peat, is used in potash works as a filter.—Scientific American.

"We made a big hit in Salt Lake." "How was that?" "Our press agent got out some extra printing and billed us as singing 'The Chimes of Mordmordy.'"—Louisville Courier Journal.
